Isn't it wonderful that when you look at the stars, you can rest assured that all the crap people do in the world doesn't mean a thing out there? All the power-hungry, war mongers, backstabbers, gossips, doomsayers, and all of the other beastly humans that mean to control, persecute, damage and place their terrible will upon others... they are not even a speck of significance out there, in fact they are nothing out there.

Thank God humans have not the technology to venture far from here. Perhaps if we could, the universe would find us a bother and wipe us out of existence.
